The Science Pathway focuses on: STEM subjects and includes Maths, Physics, Biology, Chemistry and Engineering. This Pathway is for those students who may be thinking of pursuing a degree and then later a professional career in the science, technological or medical fields. The Humanities Pathway offers students an introduction to the study of British Literature, International Relations, Philosophy, Social Studies and Environmental Science. This Pathway is perfect for students who are interested in making in-depth analyses of factors that have shaped the modern world and what can be done to address the global issues.

It's important that students develop a strong foundation of study skills to succeed at university. These academic skills include: essay writing, analysing data, research and presentation skills, critical thinking and expressing opinions.

Students will therefore spend time to develop these skills as well as their exam technique – particularly the IELTS exam – an internationally-recognised language level test and entry requirement for British universities.
